

David Page, MD, practices family medicine in Camillus with a focus on Geriatrics. In the past several years he has developed an integrated behavioral health program for his office as well as a continuity of care program for his patients with complex medical needs. He is past medical director of the Accountable Care Coalition of CNY, the first Medicare Shared Savings Program (MSSP) in Central New York. Prior to this role, Dr. Page was president of Family Care Medical Group (FCMG) for 17 years. The group grew from 16 to 65 physicians in that time, adopted an EMR in 1999, and developed several innovative programs over the years to help control health care costs and to keep physicians in a leadership role as healthcare has evolved. FCMG also began using population management programs around 2010, which gave the group valuable experience for the changes we are all working through now. During this time, in addition to his other roles, Dr. Page has maintained a fulltime medical practice in Family Medicine.

Dr. Page is a past president of the Onondaga County Medical Society. He serves as the board chair of HealtheConnections, our local regional health information organization. He is the board chair for the health advisory committee for the Onondaga County Health Commissioner. He is the father of three, lives with his wife of 37 years and enjoys hiking, skiing, scuba diving and photography.
